Dear Ms. Kindall,

In my previous email I had indicated that I would notify you when UConn had established a website dedicated to the proposed disposition of its West Hartford campus.

UConn's Planning, Architectural, and Engineering Services has developed such a website with additional information and links to external websites with relevant local and regional planning materials. The UConn website can be found by clicking here: <http://paes.uconn.edu/GHCDisposition.html>.

Jason

Dear Ms. Kindall,

My apologies for not get back to you sooner, and thank you for your email expressing an interest in UConn's proposed disposition of its West Hartford campus.

At this time, the only materials that I have available are those that were included with our scoping notice published on the Council of Environmental Quality's website. These include the notice itself, a letter UConn received from the Connecticut Office of Policy and Management, a site map depicting the location of the campus, and a general site plan depicting the campus' boundaries and buildings. For your convenience, I have attached those materials to this email.

Note, UConn is planning to have a dedicated webpage online soon with additional information and related materials. Unfortunately, the exact date by which this website will be active is unknown at this time, but I will certainly send you an email when it is ready.

In the meantime, the UConn Office of Environmental Policy maintains an active website for all UConn activities being conducted under the Connecticut Environmental Policy Act (CEPA), including the West Hartford campus disposition. You'll find the aforementioned notice and supporting materials currently on the UConn OEP website.

The August 12th public scoping meeting is UConn's opportunity to present the general options that were listed in the scoping notice along with the respective environmental impacts that are anticipated based on the current information we have. The meeting will also provide a chance for people to officially comment on the proposed options. Within a day or so after the August 12th meeting, the OEP website will also include the slides that will be presented at the meeting.

Lastly, since we are in the midst of a public comment period pursuant to CEPA, I will include any emails I receive on this subject as official comments. Unless I hear from you otherwise, I will include your correspondence as part of the official record. You are certainly welcome to send written comments for the record at any time through August 17, 2014. As I mentioned, oral comments and questions received at the August 12th meeting will also be considered as part of the record for CEPA considerations.

Regards,
Jason
